

Into her Lips

Your girlfriend had an oral fixation to the most extreme degree. Once the TransformIt app was updated to allow for bodypart transformation, she was obsessed with turning you into her lips.

You resisted, knowing what would happen: She would get carried away and take it too far. She kept bringing it up, and you kept resisting.

But then one day when you opened the door to her home, she was waiting with her phone ready. And before you knew it, you disappeared into her lips. You could still see, hear, and feel the hot, moist air coming out of her mouth.

Just like you thought she would be, she was instantly turned on more than she had ever been. Even just licking her lips made her moan like a porn actress. Soon her favorite dildo was in her hand and you felt your body rubbed against it, sending confusing sensations through you.

She didn't even talk to you, she just started making love to the dildo like it was her high school sweetheart and she was acting out her favorite hardcore porn video.

It was awkward and overwhelming. You were moved around constantly, even the slightest movement felt like your whole world was being turned upside down. You could subtly feel her arousal, like the blood from her pussy flowed up through you and carried her hormones with it.

Soon you didn't know what you wanted more, to have your humanity restored so you could pound your girlfriend with a ferocity you've never been able to conjure before, or if you wanted her to take a real flesh and blood penis between your lips, between you.

You struggled to maintain your sanity, but it was getting harder. Your world was a wash of sensation, the second-hand arousal and the smooth feeling of the glass on your body made you quiver.

She started playing with herself as she played with you, making her, and you, ever more desperate for sexual release. You longed for her, NEEDED her to suck on something more real.

But then she climaxed, and her arousal started to fall away. You were denied the pleasure from the orgasm, and now you were just her lips, just a strip of flesh attached to her face. How long would you be left like this? And would you only ever feel that same tease?